LORD NORTHCLIFFE DIED THIS MORNING

GREATEST PUBLISHED GREAT BRITAIN EVER PRODUCED.

WAS A UNIQUE FIGURE

Changed English Thought Completely and Was a Force for Progressiveness.

London, Aug. 14.—Lord Northcliffe, the greatest publisher Great Britain ever produced and one of the most powerful unofficial political personages in England, died this morning at his town residence, Carlton Gardens. He was 57 years old. It is understood death was caused by toxic poisoning from throat ailment.

Lord Northcliffe was taken ill while traveling in Germany early in the summer, writing a series of articles on German industrial and living conditions for his newspapers. Lord Northcliffe went to Switzerland the middle of June but was forced to discontinue all his literary and journalistic labors.

A short time ago he was removed to his home in London. Although continuously under care of specialists who labored to save his life, he failed to rally. He grew gradually weaker.

Through the power of his sixty publications, especially his three leading newspapers—London Times, Daily Mail and Evening News—Lord Northcliffe gained the sobriquet of cabinet maker. He was given chief credit for the downfall of the Asquith government in 1916 and the elevation of David Lloyd George to premiership. Later, however, a political feud developed and the Northcliffe papers bitterly attacked Lloyd George, demanding his resignation.

The death of England's master journalist brought widespread grief. Although he made more enemies than any other man in England, his foes respected him because he fought so well and doggedly. Poor printers who had benefitted from his high ideals for the welfare of the working classes mourned him as well as powerful politicians who had benefitted from his support. Mourners and messages of condolence to the Northcliffe home at Carlton Terrace came from all ranks and classes.

Just before news of his illness came out it was learned that two of Lord Northcliffe's business colleagues in the company publishing the Daily Mail had sued him for libel. Subsequently the suit was withdrawn.

While Lord Northcliffe was under treatment in Switzerland many wild rumors arose. One was that his mind had become affected and that he was under treatment. The basic cause of his illness seems to have been toxic poisoning arising from a throat disease.

After his condition became serious Lord Northcliffe was unconscious some of the time. In lucid periods his mind worked with old time vigor and he insisted upon giving direction for his newspapers and asking about international developments.

Lord Northcliffe went down fighting. He was conducting three vigorous fights when he was forced to give up his work. One campaign went by the slogan: "We stand by France—"—a favorite headline in his papers. This campaign was aimed against Lloyd George's opposition to the French policy in Germany.

Another Northcliffe slogan was: "Watch Japan." This campaign was due to Lord Northcliffe's belief (after his world tour) that Japan held ambitions which were dangerous to the rest of the world.

The third campaign was a single handed stand against the powerful Newspaper Proprietors' Association's efforts to reduce printers' wages. Lord Northcliffe stood for an increase in wages instead of a reduction.

Lord Northcliffe's death is bound to have a political effect but its extent depends upon whether the heirs decide to carry on the fight against Premier Lloyd George. It is certain, however, that Lord Northcliffe's death removes Premier Lloyd George's most dangerous enemy. It is presumed that the Northcliffe press will be directed in the future by Lord Rothermere and Hildebrand Harmsworth; two brothers of the late editor.

The death of Lord Northcliffe removes a unique figure in modern British history. He changed English thought completely and the greatest single force for progressiveness in England. He was ruthless in breaking down old traditions. He was the first to introduce modern newspaper methods in England—methods that might formerly have been termed "yellow." One of Northcliffe's last acts was to fight Lloyd George's policy in the Genoa conference—an unheard of violation of the tradition that the government must be supported in international conferences.

Northcliffe played a powerful role in the world war and it was his papers that first revealed the shortage of heavy ammunition in the British army in France. He was born in Dublin, the son of a lawyer. His first publication was a weekly called "Answers," which consisted mainly of answers and questions, jokes and short "freak" stories. He was created a baronet in 1904; a baron in 1905 and a viscount in 1917. In 1917 Northcliffe was chairman of the British war mission in the United States. The following year he was made director of propaganda in enemy countries. He married in 1888 to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of the late Robert Milner, but left no children.

SKIDMORE SCHOOL ELECTION AUG 29

WILL VOTE TO DISSOLVE CONSOLIDATED DISTRICTS.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS FAIL

There are 340 Pupils in the Nine Districts That are Voting.

On August 29 another election will be held at the Eureka school, six miles northwest of Skidmore in an attempt to dissolve the Skidmore consolidated school district. This consolidated district is composed of nine of the smaller districts which include the Eureka, Mt. Vernon, Albright, Union Star, Union Valley, Scrub Oak, Burr Oak Grove, Good Will and Liberty schools. About fifteen months ago these districts voted for consolidation and since then several unsuccessful attempts have been made for dissolution. The state school law says that it is necessary to have two-thirds of the residence voters of the consolidated district favoring before dissolution can be brought about.

County Superintendent Leslie G. Somerville says that a good piece of work has been accomplished in this school during the past year. J. W. Pierce has been superintendent for the past year and was re-elected by the board. In addition to the superintendent there are two teachers in the high school and three grade teachers in addition to a teacher in each of the one room schools. Under consolidation the district received $800 in state aid which it would not otherwise receive. There were 340 pupils of school age in the district last year.

J. E. Pierpoint is president and W. G. Reynolds is secretary of the present school board. Dissolution has been unsuccessful at two or three elections in the past and it is generally thought that it will not carry at this election.

TRENTON PASTOR OCCUPIES PUPLIT

REV. W. H. BRENGLE AT BAPTIST CHURCH HERE SUNDAY.

WE WILL DO AS WE PLEASE

Is Too Prfevalent in America—It Is the Idea of Liberty Gone to Seed, Pastor Says.

The Rev. W. H. Brengle, pastor of the Trenton Baptist Church spoke both morning and evening yesterday at the Baptist Church here in the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. A. Cooper. In his evening sermon, Rev. Brengle took from the Bible the sinning and fall of David and drew parallels to present conditions. Rev. Brangle said in part:

"Evil acts are not usually premeditated; they are usually the results of drifting. David's fall was due to drifting, and drifting away from the rightful things step by step is a dangerous thing for our people. It is not deliberately that we as a nation have started out to do wrong. We are all apt to forget God's law that 'whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.'

"We cannot escape the fact that we are passing through a lawless, careless and Godless sea. I am not pessimistic, for I think we are passing through this stage and will come out all right. The spirit of 'we will do as we please,' is too prevalent in America; it is the idea of liberty gone to seed.

"The ministry is no longer considered as an authority for moral standards, laymen and men in other professions are thought to know more now of moral standards than the ministers. In this drifting there is a danger of drifting too far. David drifted too far; the Kaiser drifted too far and many of the parents of the present day are drifting too far for the good of their children."

Rev. Brengle will occupy the pulpit at both services here next Sunday.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

CAMP MANNERS.

The vacation season draws multitudes of people out into the free life of summer camps, and it is a pleasure to see their happiness in enjoying the respite from the daily routine. Some of them, however, feel such a spirit of exuberance in escaping from the daily grind, that they pay attention to the confort and rights of other people.

Summer camps frequently bring a lot of people close together in tents and cabins. They can live happily in this congested way, only if all are considerate of each other. If some of these people are tired folks looking for a complete rest, it is rather rough on them to have hilarious campers come rolling in at midnight or later, arousing the whole colony with their jollifications.

A group of people living in this intimate way need to be very thoughtful of each other. A single tent of noisy and careless people can make a whole colony uncomfortable, not merely by the disturbance they create, but by failure to maintain an orderly and sanitary camp. People who can not be thoughtful of others should do their camping in remote solitudes where they won't annoy anyone.

And all this applies equally to the people who live in the neighborhood of the camps. They have rights also that should be respected. No undue liberties should be taken with their property, their gates should not be left open so that their stock will get out and no shooting should be done that would endanger or interfere with domestic animals or with the peace and quietude of the people who make their homes in the vicinity.

What's the use of a coal priority list when there is no coal?

Hides will be placed on the free list. There are many shoe factories in Senator Lodge's state and the factories want cheaper leather. Wool will have a higher duty placed on it because some of the western senators are large wool growers. This is the way the tariff is built for the people.

About the only individual that has profited so far by the coal strike is the pit mule. During the strike thousands of them have been brought to the surface and have enjoyed the privilege of eating grass and seeing the sun for the first time in years.

A little dime is now a very much despised piece of mony. Most people don't attach any importance to so little an economy as the saving of a dime. Yet when we look into the lives of the men whose great business success excites our interest and sometimes our envy, we find men who practiced the most exacting economies. The late George M. Pullman related that, when he determine to get money to build his first sleeping car, he first of all gave up "the extravagance of smoking five cent cigars."

All Friends.

There is a certain distinguished judge, who, in the days when he was practicing law, was once engaged in a case before Judge Christian Kohlsaat, of the federal court. There were two other federal judges in Illinois—Judges James Humphrey and Peter Grosscup.

The lawyer was called to the bench by Judge Kohlsaat, who addressed him thus:

"Sir, I understand that you have been referring to me as 'Chris' Kohlsaat."

"I'll bet I know who told you that!" exclaimed the lawyer. "It was either Jim Humphrey or Pete Grosscup!" —Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Cuckoo.

A Philadelphia paper, running a "nature and science" series, queries its readers: "Have you seen this bird—the yellow-billed cuckoo?" To which a number have replied: "Yes, many a time. Habitat, restaurants, buying meals for women." The paper nonchalantly supplements this information with the following: "Mr. Cuckoo is a rather shiftless sort of father and husband."

WOMEN VOTERS HOLD KEY IN MISSISSIPPI

With 40,000 Casting Their First Ballots, Big Question Is Whether for a Wilson Candidate.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The post-war feelings of the women, voting for the first time in a Mississippi primary Tuesday, will very largely determine who is to succeed Senator John Sharp Williams in the upper branch of congress.

Mississippi's women voters, expected to number around forty thousand have three choices in the senatorial primaries — ex-Senator James K. Vardaman of Jackson, ex-Congressman Hubert Stephens of New Albany and Miss Belle Kearney of Flora, a prominent suffragist worker of the state. Vardaman, when opposed in the last election by Pat Harrison—and defeated for re-election by Harrison through the influence of Woodrow Wilson — wrote at least one letter to Democrats in Mississippi declaring Vardaman to be 'untrustworthy." Vardaman opposed much of the Democratic war program and fought Wilson on numerous Democratic issues.

Stephens, who resigned from congress some months ago, was a Wilson supporter, although he never cut a noteworthy figure in the lower house of congress.

Miss Kearney is one of the most brilliant and best known political figures among the women in the state. She always has been active, not only in the suffrage movement but also in the prohibition movement in the state. An orator of recognized ability, she like Stephens, has carried on an active state-wide campaign for the nomination.

While there is little doubt that she will be unable to win the nomination the vote she polls will have an important bearing on the outcome. It is estimated that if she polls as many a stwenty-five thousand or thirty thousand votes, a second primary, because of the election laws of Mississippi, will be necessary to determine which between Vardaman and Stephens is to receive the majority necessary for nomination.

Interest in the Mississippi outcome has been sharpened by Woodrow Wilson's putting in his pen against Vardaman. Whatever may have been the reason, however, Stephens, although the Wilson letter was widely printed throughout the state, never used it for political campaign material. He restricted his attack on Vardaman to his own reflections on the former senator both as regards party loyalty and patriotic response to the Wilson administration's efforts in the war.

MARYVILLE NIMRODS MAY HUNT GAME ON SEPT. 16

Local Season Opens Then—Hunter's License Necessary.

On the night of September 15, local sportsmen may pack their shotguns and a can of soup to the lakes or sand-bars and sit in the rushes in wait for the first teal ducks to pass over the next morning. For the game season will open September 16 in this part of the country.

The outlook for game this year is bright and although there may be but an ordinary number of small ducks, the larger birds, which will begin to arrive about October 10, will be in big numbers.

Most sportsmen, said a dealer in sport goods, wait until they hear of the birds flying before they rush to the stores to replenish their outfits. All hunters must have either state or county game licenses in order to shoot wild fowl.

"'Tain't like it used t' be when I wuz a boy," said an old-timer of St. Joseph who is now too shakey to hold a shot-gun. "Then we could go out on the sand-bars across the river and get enough ducks for whole town. They used to eat my father's corn out of the crib when we had a farm just below Fourth and Massanie streets, only they called it Frederick then. But every time we see a string of ducks now every body stands and stares at them like they wuz so many airplanes."

Wonder if any person ever saw the "spur of the moment"?

There are some men in Maryville so given to splitting hairs that they can see the difference between "six of one and half dozen of another".

You can sell some Maryville people almost anything on terms of a dollar down and a dollar every time the collector can catch them in.

Uncle Abner, the town philosopher, says a lot more people would succee if they devoted half the energy they spend trying to swindle some fellow man out of a dime to making an honest dollar.

The reason some people succeed is because they go after it while the other fellow is thinking about it.

Have you ever seen anything shabbier than the straw hat on the heads of men which have weathered the storms and sunshine since early in June?

We wonder if even an expert penman could get service out of the pens they put on the counters in the Maryville post office!

The latest community affair is the community toothpick. Going home the other night we saw a man, his wife and little daughter were consuming a bag of peanuts. After it was finished the father took a toothpick from his pocket, picked his teeth, handed it to his wife who after making it do service passed it on the little girl.

Louise, the stenographer, says of two evils it is always best to choose neither.

You can cast reflections on a man's wife, his house, his car, his politics, his religion and almost anything else and escape with your life but it never is safe to take a chance and tell a friend his home-brew is no good.

A Maryville woman called up a local radio supply dealer and asked him if he handled static and if it was sold by the pound or quart.

If the skirts are made longer men will not look so long.

It is not only hard to explain some things but downright dangerous.

A woman may be beaten but she will never admit it.

Among the Maryville persons who went down for the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hartness, Mrs. Belle Davenport and her guests, Mrs. E. D. Miller and little son, Laddie, of Anaconda, Mont, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Miller and Miss Frances Griffin.

Dorothy Lee Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson of St. Joseph are the parents of a daughter, born Thursday, August 10, to whom they have given the name Dorothy Lee. Mrs. Thompson was formerly Miss Thella Hogue of Maryville.

TOURISTS FEEL INDEBTED TO LOCAL TOWNSPEOPLE

Express Special Appreciation to Mrs. J F. Montgomery, U. S. Wright, Lawrence Ogden and Edison Elagg.

The tourists that visited the local Tourists' Park yesterday were not so numerous, but those who were there were very grateful for the accommodations of the park and expressed their appreciation for several local people, when they registered on the Tourists' Park register.

John Taylor and family, in registering, says: "We have spent a most enjoyable camp today and feel very much indebted for the hospitality shown us by you townspeople, especially Mrs. J. F. Montgomery, U. S. Wright, Lawrence Ogden and Edison Blagg and their families."

Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Pollard of Calhoun were also registered at the park yesterday.

BETTER SEE EPH IF YOUR DOG LICENSE ISN'T PAID

Police Chief Will Arrest Owners Who Have Failed to Pay City License.

Is your Fido or Rover worth $14.65 or more? If you haven't paid his city dog license for the year, it may cost you that much in addition to paying the $3 license. Chief of Police Tilton said this morning that there were several persons in Maryville that have failed to pay their dog license and they are subject to arrest the next time the Chief sees them. The law provides that in case the license is not paid the owner is subject to a minimum fine of $5 and costs in addition to paying the $3 license. In some dog case that was appealed to the circuit court last year it cost the owner over $50 to free her dog from litigation.

The city records show that about $300 have been turned in for dog licenses. During the mad dog epidemic this spring about 100 dogs were killed by the authorities. If your dog doesn't have his little metal tag, you had better seeEph before he sees you if you wish to save money.

Young Boy Almost Well.

Otus Ware, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ware, who had his arm and hand torn and broken in a power wringer on the 5th of July is almost well. The torn place on the hand is healed nicely and the arm having a rotary fracture is strong enough to be removed from the splint. Dr. J. A. Larabee of Barnard, the attending physician, thinks the arm and hand will be in a perfect condition in a year or two.

Produce Review.

Egg receipts are lighter, consumption is more nearly equal to production, and fewer eggs are being placed in storage. Moderate prices generally prevailing have stimulated consumption.

The preliminary report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture on August 7 gives the following comparative stocks on August 1.

1922 10,030,000 cases.
1921 7,605,000 cases.
Excess 2,425,000 cases.

A larger volume of spring chickens is reaching the market with but little change in quotations. Sufficient fowl are being marketed to supply current trade.

Cream deliveries during the week exceed those of the same week last year, and lower prices genrally prevail.

The United States Department of Agriculture report of August 7 shows the following quantities of butter in storage August 1:

1922 102,892,000 lbs.
1921 82,838,000 lbs.
Excess 20,054,000 lbs.

THE EXECUTIVES' RESPONSE.

Resolutions Adopted at Washington are Made Public.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The following statement was issued yesterday by T. De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives:

"The telegram of the President, dated August 7, 1922, having been considered and in response to his call to the carriers and the striking workers, the following resolutions were adopted:

" 'Resolved, That the proposal of the President to the striking workmen to return to work and to the carrier to assign them to work, leaving the disputed question of seniority to the labor board under the provisions of the transportation act for decision be accepted, understanding as we do, that such acceptance involves no surrender of the principles with respect to seniority adopted by the carriers on August 1, 1922, but recognizes that the proposal of the President invokes the jurisdiction of the labor board under the transportation act to pass upon the relative seniority of those loyal employees who have remained at work and those new employees who have since accepted service (the rights of both of which classes to seniority we feel bound in justice to defend before the labor board) with the strikers who may enter the service under the proposal of the President.

" 'Therefore, be it further resolved:

" 'A. All former employees who have not been guilty of proved violence against the employees or property of the railroad shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist.

" 'B. Where the positions they formerly held have been filled other employment of the same class will be found for such employees as have committed no acts of proved violence against the employees or the property of the railroad.

" 'C. If, after these men have been assigned, questions of seniority arise with them which cannot be settled locally, they will be referred to the United States railroad labor board for review.

" 'Further resolved, that the strike is to be called off with the understanding and agreement by all parties that no intimidation nor oppression shall be practiced or permitted as against any of the employees who have remained or have taken service ,or against those who may return to service under the proposal of the President.'"

EVERYTHING READY FOR OPENING OF STATE FAIR

Amusement Program and Educational Exhibits Are Reaching Manmoth Proportions.

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 14.—When the gates of the fair grounds swing open Saturday, August 19, the opening day of the great Missouri State Fair, the visitors will be amazed at the mammoth proportion of the Fair this year. Never before in the history of the state has the educational exhibits and the amusement program surpassed those of this year. The date of the fair are August 19 to 26 inclusive.

One exhibit alone, the farm machinery exhibit, covers acres of ground, the swine show, to be held in the new swine pavilion, will be one of the greatest to be held in this country. Already the entries number 200 more than those of last year which was a record year. Entries in the cattle department are running high and herds from states as far distant as New York will be here. Already many exhibits have reached Sedalia.

The amusement features of the fair include a stupendous "Joy Zone," a racing program constisting of 10 harness races and 12 running races, auto races, auto polo games, a mammoth fireworks display, big free circus acts, thrilling aviation flights and many other attractions equally as interesting.

Every member of the family will find some feature of the fair that will interest him. Rates on all railroads have been greatly reduced and the railroads together with the automobiles are expected to bring a crowd of 500,000 visitors to the fair. Rooms in Sedalia have been listed and visitors will have no trouble in finding a place to stay. Arrangements are being made to care for 15,000 farmers in White City, the big free camping grounds with all the conveyances of the modern city.

MINERAL FEEDS USED FOR DAIRY CATTLE

Roy A. Kinnaird Received Information About Experiment in Minnesota.

Mineral feeds for hogs has been used for some time but until just recently has it been brought into use for dairy cattle according to the information which Roy A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, has received from the experiment station in Minnesota.

According to their experiments, scientific investigators have found that the rairy cow is not able to maintain the same high standard of production through several periods of lactation that she does at the time that she is in her prime.

One explaination of this fact is that the system becomes drained of mineral matter which limits the milk production. In addition to the nutrients besides those that the cow receive in their ordinary feed, companies are putting out mineral feeds for the dairy cow, the same as they have been doing for several years for hogs.

At the Minnesota experiment station, steamed bone meal is used for this purpose. They recommend the feeding of a mixture of three-fourths mixture of steamed bone meal and one-fourth salt.

This feed is fed in a box with two compartments, in one of the compartments is ordinary salt and in the other compartment is the steamed bone meal with just a small amount of salt. Each cow eats from one to three pounds of his feed each week.

The station used ordinary high grade steamed bone meal which is usually sold for commercial fertilizers. Growing stock also eat this mixture freely.

Some investigators do not consider that the ordinary steamed bone meal which is used for fertilizer is entirely safe for use as feed for dairy cows, but the Minnesota station found no bad results and say that there is not any reason why it is not satisfactory.
